Once upon a time there was a widow who lived with her son, Jack. They were very poor and had to sell their cow to get money for food.

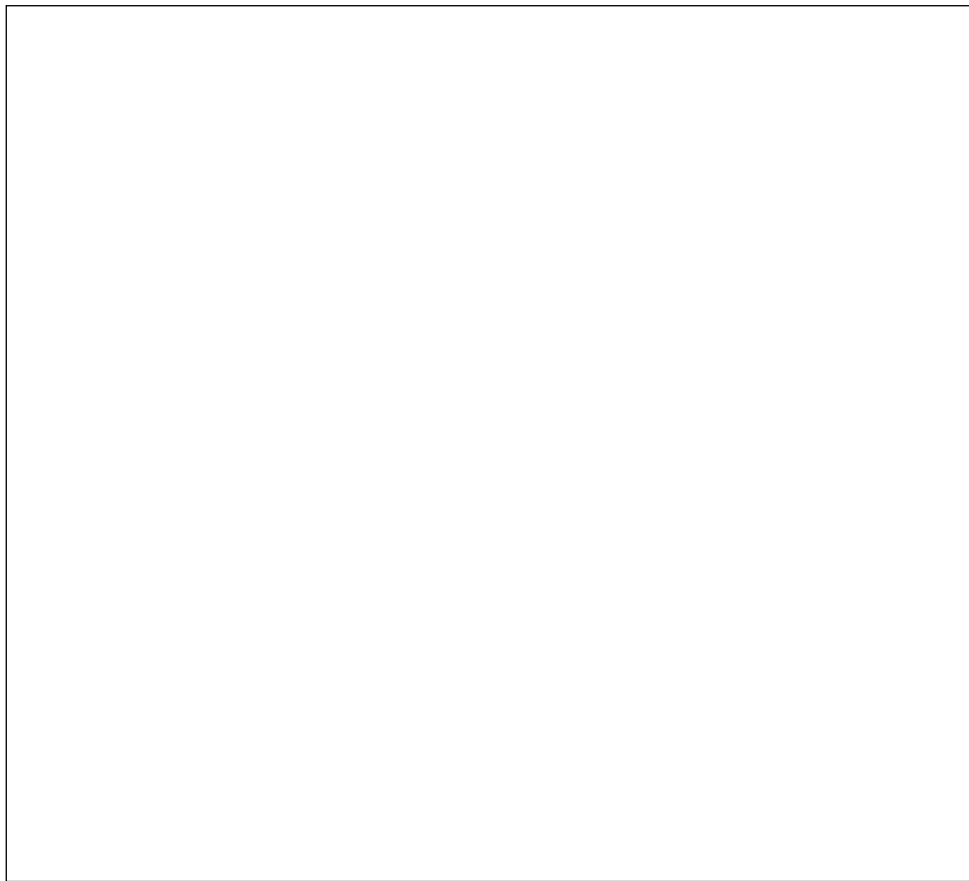

Jack jumped out of the cupboard and grabbed the hen and the harp. He ran out of the castle and down the beanstalk. The giant woke up and chased him.

Jack grabbed an axe and chopped down the beanstalk. The giant fell with a mighty crash and that was the end of him!

Jack and his mother kept the hen and the harp and lived happily ever after.

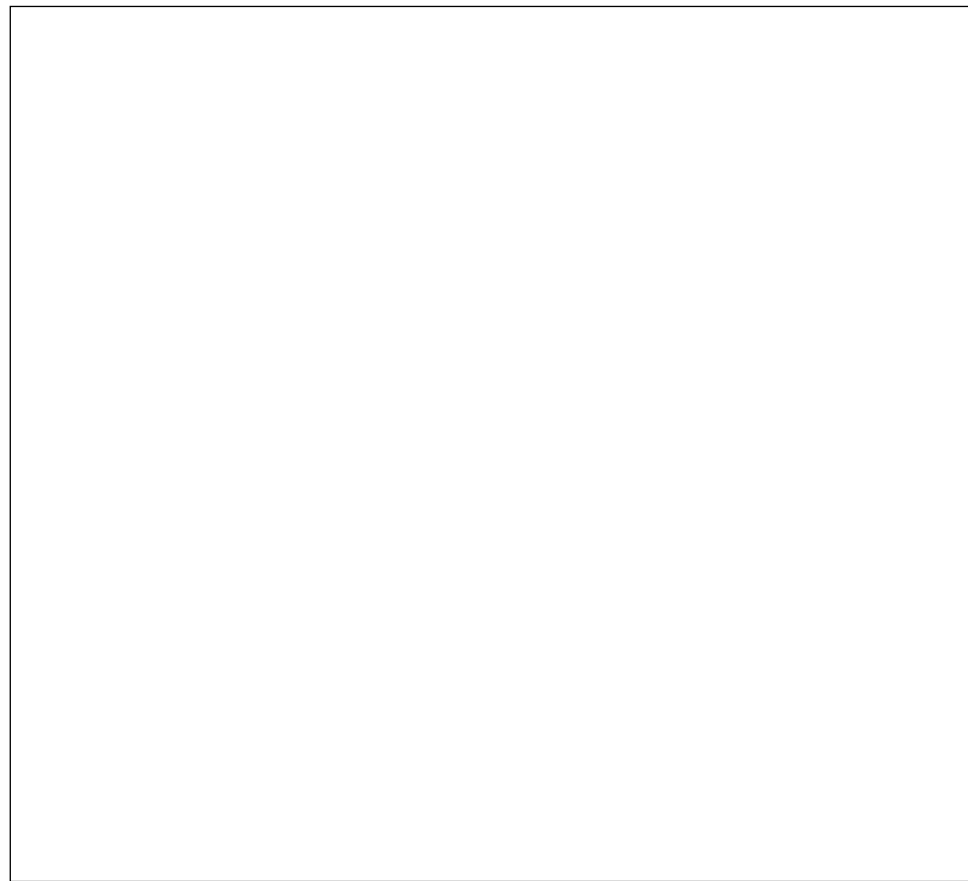

The giant ate an enormous dinner. Then he asked for his hen and his golden harp.

The hen laid a beautiful golden egg and the harp played a beautiful tune.

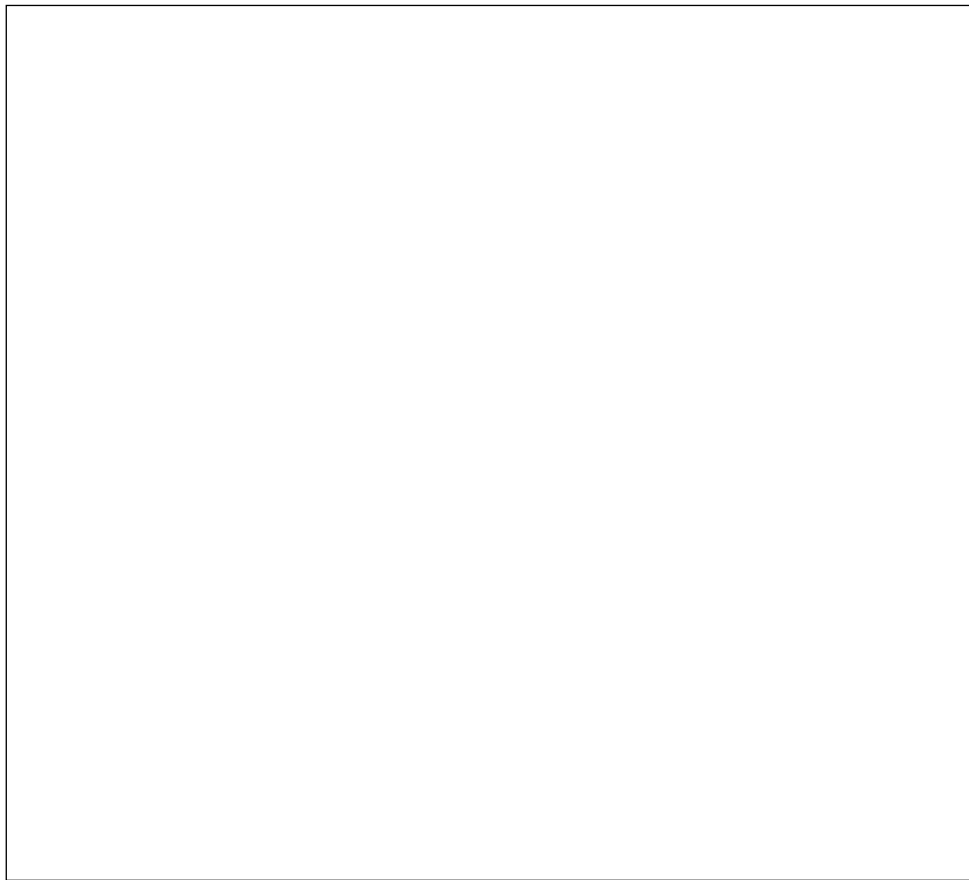

As the music played, the giant fell asleep.

Jack took the cow to market. On the way he met a man.
“I’ll give you these magic beans for your cow,” said the man.

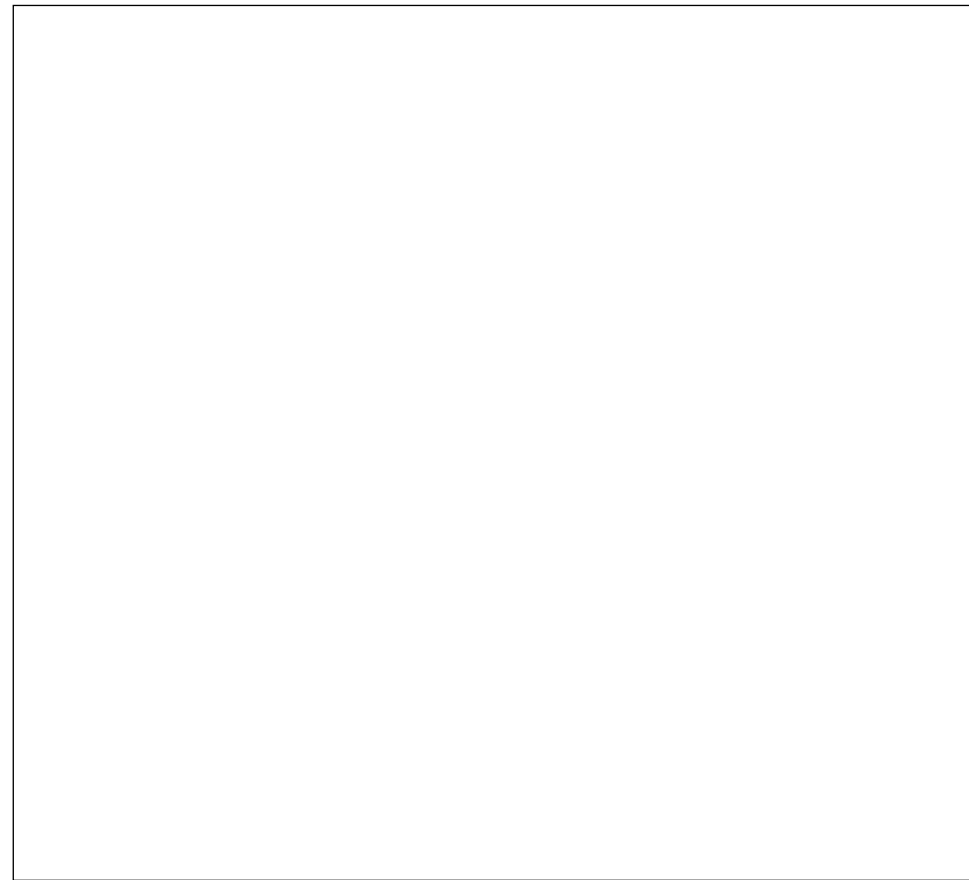

When Jack showed his mother the beans, she was so angry that she threw them out of the window. She sent Jack to bed.

The beans grew into an enormous beanstalk and Jack climbed up to the top.

At the top of the beanstalk was a giant's castle. Jack knocked on the door.

The giant's wife gave Jack something to eat. She was afraid the giant would find Jack and want to eat him!

Suddenly, there were three loud knocks on the door. The giant had come home.

"FEE, FI, FO, FUM!" he said.

Jack quickly hid in a cupboard.
